Joel has worked with hundreds of industry leaders ranging from national nonprofits, manufacturing and healthcare, to technology and book publishing companies. As a trusted advisor, he serves as a private sounding board, expert strategist, someone with a fresh perspective and a few have even called him "The calm in the center of our storm."

In recent years, Joel has provided executive coaching, strategic planning, leadership development support and direction and has delivered trainings and workshops to numerous nonprofit organizations, at community foundations, United Ways and events such as Center for Disability Empowerment, Domestic Violence Shelter, Domestic Violence/Sexual Assault Collaborative, Harmony House, Habitat for Humanity, Awakening Ministries, PANDAS Network, Friends of the Gorman Nature Center, Mansfield Art Center, The Columbus Foundation, Richland County Foundation (Osborne Meese Academy), Tiffin-Seneca United Way, Medina United Way, Butler County United Way, Bryan Area Foundation, Van Wert County Foundation, Portage Foundation and The Catholic Foundation.

Joel began his career in Chicago, working in both small and large agencies and serving national nonprofit brands such as Ronald McDonald House Charities, National MS Society and the National Runaway Safeline.
